Moments

Photography by Richard Vollertsen

We live on a remarkable blue dot in the universe, and will not pass this way again. With the jet-fueled thrust of our daily lives, we pass quickly by innumerable unique moments where light, structure, pattern, and context quietly collide. Photography is a powerful process that forces you to slow down and appreciate such moments. With photography's purposeful intention, the most mundane of subjects can offer up an intimate and universal meaning. I hope you enjoy these moments.
